The stone bungalow is a two-bay by two-bay one and one-half story house. It has a stone foundation and stone walls. It has a wide gable roof covered in asphalt shingles. Shed roof dormers are on both sides of the gable roof. The structure has a square floor plan. The date of construction is early 20th century.

The stone bungalow is located on the northeast corner of the intersection of Alt. Rt. 40 with Benevola Church Road in Benevola. It is located on a level track of land at the intersection of the two roads. The main facade faces west.

The main facade of the bungalow is marked by a one-story porch that fits into the roofline of the house. The porch extends slightly past the gable ends of the house and thus creates small gables at each end of the porch connected to the main gable of the house. The porch roof is supported by posts made of rusticated concrete blocks. The entrance to the house is located in the southernmost bay of the main facade. A two-section window is located in the other bay of the first story. The shed dormer window has two two-section windows that fit into the roof with a balaster railing in front of them. The northern gable end has a brick chimney stack that partially extends outside of the gable end. On each gable end, the gable is covered in white siding.

There are no significant outbuildings on this property.
